Business Improved as Cool Weather Strikes the Nation

Retail Distribution Shows Biggest Advance in All Sections

EMPLOYMENT RISES

Industrial Operations Increasing Despite Labor Trouble

NEW YORK—(AP)—While general business conditions were reported as somewhat brighter this week in nearly all districts, said the Dun and Bradstreet weekly trade review Friday, the most vigorous upturn occurred in retail distribution, which was stimulated by cooler weather. Regarding the industrial trend, the review said that the indices are "somewhat more favorable although lacking sufficient uniformity to establish a definite trend."

"Retail trade," continued the review, "responded to the first touch of wintry weather, which gave a sudden spurt to the movement of seasonal merchandise, although department store sales depended heavily on profit-sharing sales to move stocks."

"A further incentive to buying was provided by the continuous emphasis placed by store advertising on the imminence of higher prices. Textile lines still are the most active, with women's wear, including coats and suits, selling better than last week."

"Wholesale orders have fallen below the total for the corresponding week last year, even though the volume of merchandise moved was larger because of shipments of old contracts."

"Industrial operations are being increased gradually, as employment was slightly higher than a week earlier, but general operating schedules, however, are expected to continue at a diminished rate until labor disturbances will have been cleared up."

Processing Tax on Hogs November 5

Butchers, Wholesalers Will Be Required to Take Inventory

LITTLE ROCK—Collector of Internal Revenue Homer M. Adkins has received official notice from Washington that a processing tax has been placed on hogs, effective November 5, 1933. A floor tax is also placed on all articles processed wholly or in chief value from hogs effective on the same date.

Processors and wholesalers are required to take an inventory of all articles processed from hogs on hand as of the earliest moment of November 5 and file it with the collector by December 5. Retailers should take inventory of these articles 30 days later, or December 5, 1933, and file with the collector by January 5, 1934.

A "processor" is any one who slaughters hogs for market. If a producer of hogs slaughters them for market he is a processor and must pay the tax. The rate of tax on processors is:

Nov. 1, 1933—
$.50 per hundred lbs. live weight.
Dec. 1, 1933—
$.100 per hundred lbs. live weight.
Jan. 1, 1934—
$.150 per hundred lbs. live weight.
Feb. 1, 1934—
$.200 per hundred lbs. live weight.

The rate of floor tax on articles processed from hogs, is given on the inventory forms which will be forwarded to taxpayers just as soon as they are received by the collector. Inventories should be taken on the dates above mentioned, whether or not forms have been received. The information can be placed upon the forms when received.

Soviet Envoy Says Pact Will Affect Indirectly the World

BERLIN, Germany—(AP)—Russo-American relations can be re-established within half an hour so far as Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar, is concerned.

Deluged with requests of American correspondents to receive them, Litvinov Saturday broke his self-imposed pledge not to talk on route to Washington for discussions with President Roosevelt.

He met them at the Soviet embassy soon after his arrival here. He summed up the effect of recognition of Russia by saying:

"Every new relationship established between two nations must to some degree affect relations between all other countries."

Drugstore Code Is Modified on Hours

Curb-Service Employees Exempt If on Commission Basis

LITTLE ROCK—Apprehension on the part of operators of retail drug stores resulting from an announcement at Washington that such establishments would operate under the code for retail trade was relieved Friday upon receipt of copies of the code by the Little Rock and State Chambers of Commerce.

The code contains supplemental provisions applicable to retail drug establishments in the form of a separate schedule.

Retail drug stores are permitted to operate seven days for a total of 84 hours, or more, per week but no day shall be less than eight hours. No employee, other than executive or pharmacist, assistant pharmacist or apprentice pharmacist, may be employed more than 56 hours in any one week nor more than 10 hours per day nor more than 13 days in any two consecutive weeks except that pharmacists, assistant pharmacists and apprentice pharmacists may work 100 per cent more than the maximum of 56 hours or still more in cases of emergency.

Where boys or girls serve patrons at the curb, minimum wages will not apply if they are employed on a commission basis.

In cities of from 25,000 to 100,000 population, the minimum wage is fixed at $14 per week and in towns of from 2,500 to 25,000 population the wages of all employees shall be increased by not less than 20 per cent as compared with those current on July 1, 1933, provided that this shall not require an increase to more than the rate of $11 per week and, provided further, that no employee shall be paid less than at the rate of $10 per week. The usual differential of $1 per week applicable to the South obtains.

Board to Choose Hirst's Successor

Education Commissioner May Be Named November 6 or 7

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The state board of education probably will be called to meet November 6 or 7 to select a successor to Claud M. Hirst as state commissioner of education.

Although Mr. Hirst's resignation became effective October 1, the board decided not to fill the place immediately until the applications of nearly a score could be studied.

D. A. Bradham of Warren, president of the board, conferred with Governor Fittrell and sometime afterward said the board probably would be called to meet around November 6.

11th Anniversary for Fascist Rule

Mussolini Arouses Italy to Frenzy on "Black Shirt" Birthday

ROME, Italy—(AP)—Premier Mussolini said Saturday he wished "to give the Italian nation a hard but magnificent task—that of obtaining primacy on the earth and in the skies."

Speaking in connection with the 11th anniversary of the Fascist regime, the premier declared that this primacy should be both in material things and in the spirit.

He addressed 20,000 war veterans as, amid the din of sirens and church bells, Fascist Italy celebrated the anniversary of the Black Shirt regime.

Georgia to Wipe Out Chain Gangs

State Plans Instead to Build 1½-Million-Dollar Prison

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—The end of Georgia's widely publicized chain gang system was forecast Friday to follow construction of the new $1,500,000 prison in Tullahoma.

Hugh Howell, chairman of the state Democratic Executive Committee, said that withdrawal of felony convicts—backbone of the chain gangs—was the aim of the administration.

Other convicts in the gangs are short-term misdemeanors, prisoners, described by Chairman E. L. Rainey of the state Prison Commission as a "contingent of the state." A suit now is pending in Lloyd Superior Court to decide whether the state must take over such prisoners.

Plans submitted in Washington when an allocation of Federal Public Works funds for the prison was obtained call for a plant capable of housing 3,000 prisoners or more.

Full industrialization of the prison system of Georgia, which is now based on road work for employment of the convicts, would require legislative action, prison commissioners said.

Hope Team Leaves for Game Against Texarkana Squad

Locals Favored to Defeat Arkansas-Side High School

4 WINS; 2 LOSSES

Locals Have Bowed But Twice, Camden, Hot Springs

Coach Teddy Jones sent his squad of athletes through light limbering up exercises Friday for their game Saturday afternoon with the Texarkana Razorbacks. The opening kick-off is set for 2:30 o'clock on Buhrman field at Texarkana.

The game will be the second for the Bobcats in two days. Thursday night Hope played at Hot Springs, losing a hard-fought game, 13 to 7.

Hope is favored.

The Bobcat team, ranking with some of the best in the state, is a favorite to win. The squad is in fair shape. Several players are suffering from sore muscles and minor injuries.

Whether Jack Turner, blocking halfback and an excellent pass receiver, will play was not determined. Coach Jones may keep him on the bench. Turner has a bad knee, hurt in the Hot Springs game Thursday night, forcing him to the sidelines after playing about three minutes.

The Bobcats will out-weight their opponents. Texarkana will start one of the lightest teams in several years, averaging right at 150 pounds. The locals will have a weight advantage of approximately eight or ten pounds.

Coach Jones said before leaving Saturday that his "only worry" was a possible let-down in the team before Texarkana has suffered three straight losses in successive week-ends beaten by Camden, Hot Springs and Shreveport, all good teams.

Locals' Record

The Bobcat record this season stands:

Hope 12, Ashdown 0.
Hope 6, Camden 20.
Hope 37, Lewisville 0.
Hope 33, Locksburg 0.
Hope 26, Malvern 6.
Hope 7, Hot Springs 13.

A large number of Hope fans accompanied the team to Texarkana Saturday noon.

Tupelo First City Taking U. S. Power

Mississippi City to Purchase for Resale to Consumers

TUPELO, Miss.—(AP)—Signing covenant No. 1 Friday Tupelo became the first city in America to obtain a Tennessee Valley Authority contract for direct Muscle Shoals power.

The TVA commissioners and the city authorities completed negotiations and singing here Friday with the contract to run for 20 years and current to be sold at a rate of seven mills or less per kilowatt hour to the city.

The contract permits Tupelo as a municipality to sell and supply current to surrounding rural communities or near by towns.

Local domestic rates will be cut a minimum of 67 2/3 per cent from the starting rate. Commercial rates will receive a 50 per cent cut. Industrial rates will average about seven mills per kilowatt hour.

Mayor J. P. Hanney, referring to the rate cuts said: "Industries using large amounts of current will think they have stolen the power."

Contract provides that the authority will furnish a transmission line and will supply current in needed quantities beginning February 7, 1934, date of expiration of the city's contract to buy power from the Mississippi Power Company.

Aviation-Type Car Suddenly Crashes

Three-Wheel Speed Auto Kills Driver in Chicago Accident

CHICAGO.—(AP)—A three-wheeled automobile of radical streamline design swerved suddenly on the South Shore drive Friday and rolled over twice, crushing its American driver and severely injuring two distinguished foreign guests.

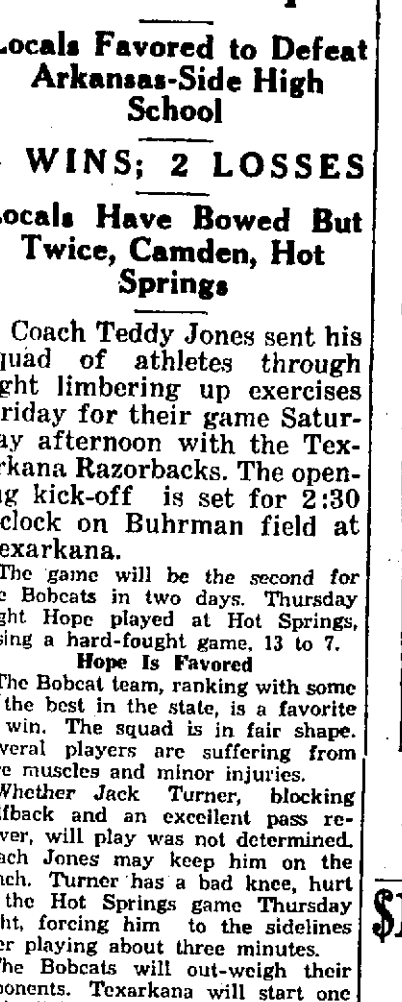

F. C. Turner of Birmingham, Ala., and Pittsburgh, a cousin of Rocco Turner, famous flier, died as his wife rushed here by chartered plane from the Southern city. His face was crushed and skull fractured.

His two passengers, who came here on the Graf Zeppelin and intended to return on the ship from Akron, O., were expected to live.

The car, of tear drop shape, was designed and built by two Bridgeport, Ct., inventors and had been purchased by an advertising tour of the country. Witnesses said the car was traveling 30 to 40 miles an hour along the boulevard adjacent to the world's fair grounds when they observed it veering suddenly, as though striking an irregularity in pavement. It rolled over twice.

The automobile was 19 feet long, weighing 2,300 pounds, modeled on aero dynamic principles to reduce wind pressure. Two front wheels derived their motive power from an engine at the rear of the machine while the single rear wheel was geared for steering. The motor was a Ford V-8. Tires were of superballoon, aviation type. It was designed, technicians said, for speed, fuel economy and facile handling in traffic.

An admiring spectator, left, is Postmaster General James Farley.

$115 Raised Here for Party Deficit

Carrigan and Anderson Make First Report for County

Hempstead county raised $115.00 of its $200.00 quota for the national Democratic party's campaign deficit in local canvassing Friday by Steve Carrigan, county manager, and Roy Anderson, assistant manager.

Mr. Carrigan and Mr. Anderson worked intensively Friday, and Saturday morning forwarded their first list to Lee Miles, state treasurer for the party, at Little Rock.

"Hempstead will raise all of its $200 quota," Mr. Carrigan said, "but it will take some additional work this coming week. Meanwhile we have turned in to Mr. Miles a little more than half the required amount."

Construction Still Under Way Between Gurdan and Prescott

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Three detours were called to the attention of motorists by the state highway department.

Highway 65 is closed to through traffic from Conway to Harrison. Traffic is being routed from Conway to Russellville over Highway 64, and thence to Harrison over Highway 7.

An all-weather detour of three miles between Gurdan and Prescott still remains. Construction is going on there.

An eight-mile detour, which can be negotiated in any kind of weather, is maintained east of Brasfield on Highway 70.

Rail Co-Ordinator Demands Price of $35 for Carriers

Eastman Says Alternative Is for Companies to Reveal Their Costs

HINTS CONSPIRACY

He Declares Steel Men Got Together on Government Bids

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The administration Saturday notified the steel companies that the government will refuse to loan funds for the purchase of rails for the railroads without a complete examination of the steel companies' books and cost records unless prices are reduced to $35 per ton.

Joseph B. Eastman, transportation co-ordinator, made public letters from the steel companies fixing a uniform price of $37.75 per gross ton at the mills for first-quality rails.

He charged that letters and prices submitted "bear unmistakable evidence of prior consultation and collusion, and the absence of competition."

Mercury Drops to 8 Degrees in North

26 Persons Missing in Winter Storm on Lake Winnipeg

By The Associated Press

Twenty-six persons were missing on Lake Winnipeg in Canada as pre-winter storms churned up waves.

Overcast weather continued in most sections in the United States with lower temperatures forecast.

The missing persons were members of the crews and passengers on two lake boats five days overdue. The owners expressed hopes that the two craft may have anchored in sheltered regions of the lake.

A low of 8 above was reported in Minnesota and 10 above in North Dakota, and each reported snow swirls. Chicago's thermometers headed down below freezing, and Indiana had a temperature in the 40's with freezing or below forecast.

Des Moines had a brief flurry of snow. Kansas City reported seasonal weather. A reading of 51 degrees was recorded at St. Louis. Cleveland saw the thermometer slide downward from 40 and had a forecast of snow.

The East, struck by snow storms in the mountain regions earlier in the week, saw a return to normal weather. But forecasters said a cold wave with possible snow was on the way.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Farmer Can't Eat Law of Averages
Luck Comes to Park Chief
Russia in Big News; Facts House.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—Farmers are in revolt against the law of averages. Averages tell the farmer that after seven months of Roosevelt he is 22 per cent better off when you figure the prices he gets against the prices he pays.

According to present prices, wheat farmers will get $100,000 more this year for 200,000 fewer bushels of wheat—plus $120,000 more for reduction of the next crop.

But try to feed averages to a South Dakota farmer, for instance, and he'll probably chase you with a pitchfork. Out there the crop failure was almost complete. The fact that South Dakota raised but 3,000,000 bushels of wheat against last year's 37,000,000 is swell for wheat prices, but hell on South Dakota.

The oat crop was down from 75,000,000 to 5,000,000 and barley from 7,000,000 to 3,000,000.

Some wheat "average farmer" doesn't live there—in other words, suffering from short crops or price slumps in individual commodities, North Dakota and Nebraska also have been having a bad time.

Some Win, Others Lose
"Spotting" of the farm situation explains why some farmers will strike and others won't. A farmer with plenty of wheat who can get 55 to 60 cents a bushel for it now as against 35 cents last year, or a potato grower who can collect $1 as against last year's 38 cents is relatively content.

But not the livestock raiser, who compares the present price of $3.61 with the 1932 low price—very low—of $4.31.

Advancing prices of manufactured goods leave the "average farmer" with a present 61 per cent of parity prices, as against 71 per cent in July and 50 per cent in March. The farmer's average position has improved, but not, as everyone here agrees, fast enough.

Luck Comes His Way
Mrs. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who is fond of parks, took a shine to a nice, bright young man whom she found in charge of the Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado. The result is that C. Marshall Finnan, 32, now is superintendent of the vast national capital park system.

The original idea was that Finnan should be an associate director in charge of all national park field work. Older officials, with nothing against Finnan except his slender experience, had trouble bashing that proposal.

Russia Story Packs House
The press conference at which President Roosevelt gave out the Russian correspondence was the biggest ever seen—uncomfortably packed, in fact—because word had leaked out that "something hot on Russia" was coming up.

So that no one would be guarded carefully so that no one could emerge to break the news prematurely. General Johnson's little girl secretary somehow found herself mixed up in the proceedings and tried vainly to escape; no one could leave.

I wouldn't write any crazy folk stories about where Litvinoff is going to stay. I don't know," remarked Mr. Roosevelt, after cautioning everyone that Russia wasn't being recognized yet.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

REQUISITES for a Smooth Complexion

Absolute cleanliness is the first requisite of a smooth, beautiful complexion.

Whether you use a cleansing cream in conjunction with a tonic or prefer plain soap and water followed by a nourishing cream or a lotion depends on your own individual taste. The important thing is that you do use some method of cleansing which actually purges the pores of all impurities.

A twice a day cleansing ordinarily will suffice if you live in the country far from street dust and coal soot. But the woman who lives and works in a city cannot limit herself to two cleanings. She should take time at noon to freshen up her skin.

If you work in an office why not have on hand all the cosmetic aids which you need for a nice little clean-up facial? Perhaps a small box with separate compartments should be kept in one side of a drawer in your desk. The box should contain your favorite cleansing preparations—either cleansing cream or a cake of bland soap. Include the tonics or lotions which follow the cleansing. Don't forget about a foundation base and some rouge, powder and lipstick. It's better to apply loose powder with cotton pads than cake powder from your vanity case.

Most really fastidious girls like to keep a mouth wash in the office. It makes you feel better to rinse your mouth and gargle after lunch.

NEXT: Youthful eyes.

Nowadays all that's needed to start a new town is a movie theater, a garage, a delicatessen and four filling stations.

There is one time when you can safely believe all you hear—and that is when your hear is a locomotive whistling for a grade crossing.

Judge—I understand that you prefer charges against this man.

Plaintiff—No, sir; I prefer cash. That's why I had him brought here.

Eating fish may not strengthen the brain, but going fishing seems to stimulate the imagination.

In 1860 the federal government cost the average citizen $2.08 per year. In 1931 the cost of government was $107.37 per capita, or 28 per cent of the income of the American people.

Phoebe—I wish you would give me a little money sometime without my having to ask for it.

Layton—I wish you would give me the chance just twice.

and eggs on their plates in a pretense of eating, gazing desperately, unhappily into each other's eyes.

"You need a shave," said Pat. "You look terrible!"

"Couldn't sleep. Couldn't shave. I kept thinking about you. Thinking about you, Pat. I can't go through with it."

"Barney," said Pat in a frightened voice, "You mustn't say such things."

"I can't marry Joan," Barney said quietly. "It would be a horrible thing to do. I can't do it. I'm going to tell her."

"Barney, listen to me!" said Pat. "You can't do that to Joan. She mustn't be hurt again. I couldn't bear it."

"Again?"

"You see she cared for someone else once, Barney. And he—well, nothing came of it."

"He didn't walk out on Joan?" Barney began indignantly. His expression was unbelieving.

"It was just that she was so sure and so happy. And then he stopped coming because he felt for another girl."

"Another girl chiseled in," Barney spoke slowly.

"Just exactly the same," said Pat. "Except that they weren't engaged like you and Joan. It would be a million times worse. And I'm her sister."

BARNEY was seeing things clearly now, in the light of this new knowledge. Things fell into place. Fitted. The whole pattern was there. Joan's sadness, the melancholy quality in her voice, it was that quality that had stirred him. It had been a long time before Joan had responded to his devotion. And when she had, he had missed something.

"We couldn't," said Pat. "Oh, Barney, I'll go away!"

"You can't go away," Barney said. Looking across at Pat, sitting there with the brave look in her eyes, he knew it was the one thing he couldn't stand—having Pat leave.

"I swear I'll be good," he promised. "I'll stop thinking about you. And I'll see to it that Joan never even guesses the truth. You and I would probably live a cat-and-dog life anyhow."

"Of course we would," encouraged Pat huskily.

"Joan and I think alike about so many things. You'd make me miserable, always hanging around my neck. Now, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, Barney," said Pat. "I'm afraid I would. I'd always be thinking something would run over you or something would fall down on your head."

"Or the earth would open up and swallow me. Oh, Pat, darling, I love you so!"

After that they just sat and stared at each other miserably until the small place was almost filled with other customers. Their plates had been removed and a waiter coughed apologetically.

"Nothing more, sir?"

"No, nothing."

Pat glanced at her watch. Barney got to his feet, paid the cashier and they went out together into a day grown golden with sunshine.

When they reached the office Barney found some telephone calls waiting for him. He gave a number, waited and then held a brief conversation. "That," he said as he put down the telephone, "was Olive Wetherington, head of the Junior League. They want Joan to sing at some charity affair they're giving at a private home. You can see how famous your sister is getting."

He added wearily, "I told her Joan would come. Naturally it will be good publicity."

Pat plunged into the most intense activity. She revised her filing system which included a painstaking study of the old cards and substitution of many new ones. She rearranged pictures and indulged in a grand housecleaning that left no time for the gay banter and companionable talks with Barney that had been such happy interludes heretofore.

IT WAS not easy to avoid Barney's dark, unhappy gaze, and to avoid references to the question that was a throbbing issue between them. There had been only one time when vigilance, the close guard, had been relaxed. That was one afternoon when it rained and Pat had come outside to find Barney waiting for her.

"I'll drive you home," he said gruffly.

"But, Barney, you don't need to. I was planning to take a taxi."

"Don't be a fool, Pat," Barney said shortly. He reached over and pulled her light coat closer about her throat. "Can't have you taking another cold," he said.

They turned on Riverside Drive, Barney explaining that he needed a little air and a short drive would be good for her too. He said she had been spending too much time in the office lately.

Barney was in a black mood. Pat began filling in the blank pauses in the conversation with descriptions of Memphis, such boastful descriptions that Barney was stirred into rejoinders.

There was the Pink Palace, Pat told him. It had started out to be a magnificent home, but eventually had become a museum. There was Chickasaw Gardens and near it a big yellow home with a tall iron fence and deep hedge, giving the foreign flavor of seclusion. Another home nearby of gracious southern simplicity, and the Crosby home, set in its own woodland.

"Well, you haven't General Grant's tomb in Memphis at all, in rate," Barney said with a gesture toward the imposing bulk they were nearing.

"But we have General Forrest's statue," Pat flashed back. "You should see it when it's covered with snow!"

Barney laughed and turned to look at her. The sober eyes, the droop to her lips, belied the gay note in her voice and drove him to sudden recklessness. His arm went about her. "I'm only human," Barney said. "I want the woman I love."

"We've got to go through with it," Pat said. "I can't marry you, Barney."

"You don't really love me then?"

"You'd hate me some day if we hurt Joan like that."

Late that night Joan was awakened by the sound of sobbing. Deep, tearing sobs.

How to Get the Most From Cheap Cuts of Meat

By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

We all are alert for ways and means to economize without sacrifice of quality and food value. And cheap cuts of meat both tempt and perplex us. It is perfectly true that some cuts of meat are less expensive per pound than others. But if more fuel must be used in cooking the "cheap cut," there is less edible meat in the whole.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Chilled apple sauce, cereal, cream, codfish balls, corn-bread, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Cream of tomato soup, toast sticks, cottage cheese and head lettuce salad, raisin cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner: Rolled flank steak, creamed celery, baked squash, carrot straws and home-made pickles, canned cherry cobbler, milk, coffee.

And if more pounds must be purchased for a meal, the merit of the cheap cut as a nil.

However, there's always a way out, so if we plan to cook these cuts that require long cooking while the oven is going for baking, the cost of the fuel is decreased.

The waste in a bony piece is made up in the delicious flavor of the dish because casserole dishes combine vegetables with meat in such a way that all juices and flavor are preserved.

Home-makers can do much to make it possible for the butcher to sell the choice cuts at a more reasonable rate. If women demand portership exclusively the butcher finds himself with flank steak and chuck roasts on his hands to such an extent that he must charge a seemingly exorbitant price for the meat. Does he sell to make up for what he can't market.

Saturday morning when the oven is hot for baking, put in this rolled flank of beef. Then at dinner time reheat the oven for an hour and bake the extra vegetable and pudding while the meat is finishing.

The meat will cook some in its own heat and the heat of the cooking oven in the morning so an hour at dinner time is plenty of time to thoroughly cook the dish.

There is no waste in bone and fat in flank steak. Score the steak at home or have the butcher do it before preparing for the oven.

Rolls Flank Steak
One flank steak, 1 teaspoon mustard, 2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 cups coarse stale bread crumbs, 4 tablespoons melted butter or meat drippings, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons hot water.

Make a paste of mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, sugar and vinegar. Spread meat with this paste, cover with the stuffing and roll like a jelly roll. Do not roll too tightly, because the stuffing must have room to expand. Bind securely with soft cord, dredge with flour and bake two hours in a moderate oven.

To make the stuffing mix 1 teaspoon salt, onion and pepper with bread crumbs. Melt the fat in the hot water and pour over crumbs. Cover lightly with a fork, keeping the stuffing light. The stuffing should be just moist enough to hold together, but not sticky or pasty.

Casserole With Vegetables
One flank steak, prepared paste, 1 to 2 cups diced carrots, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1/2 cup diced turnip, 1 large onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup boiling water.

Spread meat with paste as in preceding recipe. Cut meat to fit casserole. Oil casserole well with bacon fat. If the steak is cut in three pieces, put one-third of the vegetables in the casserole, arranging in layers and slicing the onion through them. Season with salt and pepper and add a piece of meat. Continue layer for layer of meat and vegetables until all is used. Add boiling water, cover closely and bake an hour and one-half in the morning and one hour at dinner time. Serve from casserole.

The long cooking and the vinegar break down the tough tissues of the meat and leave it very palatable and nourishing.

Strange Postlude
Jack Sharkey is thoroughly dependable. You can count on him every time to do the erratic. His newest gesture of his entire boxing career.

Without a doubt he was ready for the rocking chair after Prime Carners pitched that telephone pole up under his chin. As Sharkey left the arena that night, he waved to the ring and the world an unmistakable gesture of farewell. Writers in the press room looked significantly at one another and wrote tearful pieces about the Squire's last fight.

Changes His Mind
Sharkey drove to Boston, and as he whipped his snappy roadster out along the Post road, the writing ringsiders expressed the belief they never would see him returning to the glove wars. But he wasn't in Boston a week before he announced that a week before the most ambitious fighting campaign in his career. He would tune up with Levinsky, Loughran and maybe a couple of others, and come back for another crack at Carners.

He started his tuning up in a decidedly off-key. The Kingfisher untuned him with fortissimo flourishes at Chicago. Fight writers expressed doubt that Jack would go through with the down he went before a pizzicato Loughran match. But he did—and Loughran top, which you must admit is light enough.

Dumb Officials!
That would be the end of him surely. But no! He says now he is ready to battle Don McCormick, and after that he will take on Max Baer in Miami for the privilege of being pushed around by the Big Glacier from Geneva.

What's more, he says he lost to Levinsky and Loughran through the dumbness of the officials—though what part the officials played in that swishing haymaker of Levinsky's reference was undemonstrated. Maybe Jack wanted the referee to take it for him. And did he expect the officials at Philly to rule that all those Loughran lefts that packed away at his battered features didn't count?

As has been said year after year, Sharkey is a strange man. And in this, the last chapter of his book, he is showing himself stranger than ever. A little too strange to understand.

Aldrich Reveals Firing of Wiggin

Rockefeller Agent Didn't Know About "Operations on the Side"

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Market trading policies of Albert H. Wiggin, for years at the helm of the $2,000,000,000 Chase National bank, were repudiated Friday before the Senate Banking Committee by Winthrop W. Aldrich, his recent successor as head of the financial house.

Aldrich surprised the committee and spectators, along with Chase officials seated about him, by a brisk and voluntary declaration that the bank's present management is "absolutely opposed" to affiliates trading in the bank's stock in the market.

His statement was made after investigators had presented evidence that Wiggin's personal companies had profited upward of $10,000,000 through dealing in the bank's stock, while bank affiliates and subsidiaries were engaged in stock pool operations.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee lawyer, had traced widespread and interwoven stock operations of the Chase Securities Corporation and its subsidiary, Metopon Securities Corporation, and Wiggin's personal companies, the Sherman, the Marlyn and the Clington.

Wiggin, who ascended to leadership of the bank in 1911 and relinquished his place last January, looked on calmly while the younger Aldrich walked to the head of the committee.

As a matter of fact today, the Metopon Corporation does not deal in Chase stock in any way whatever, and as long as I have anything to do with the management the market in Chase stock will not be an artificial one."

Explaining a moment later that the last part of his statement might seem too strong, Aldrich modified it to say that the "market in Chase stock shall not be affected by the affiliates of trading accounts by the affiliates of the bank."

Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the largest single holder of Chase bank stock, brought about divorce of the bank and its securities affiliate last spring as one of his first acts on assuming to the leadership.

Profits Cited

Pecora brought out that while Wiggin's personal corporations showed a profit of more than $10,000,000 in the bank stock, the Chase Securities Corporation's operations yielded around $156,000. Wiggin said there was a difference in the way they operated.

He did not challenge Pecora's statement that the banker's personal company realized a fortune, but listened to the figures unsmilingly and said he could not verify them. They were compiled by Pecora and his staff.

To explain the difference in profits, Wiggin said his personal corporations had held the stock in which they traded for much longer periods than had serving the bank affiliates "went in and out" of the market.

Profits to the personal companies were piled up in the five-year period, 1928-1932, Pecora said, tabulating them as follows:

Sherman Corporation, $5,594,333.
Marlyn Corporation, $386,161.
Clington Co., Inc., $4,445,000.

Aldrich told newspapermen after the table and volunteered to members:

Aldrich Statement

"In order that there shall be no misunderstanding on the part of the present stockholders of the bank as to what the attitude of the present management of the bank is with regard to participation by the affiliates of the bank in trading accounts in bank stock, I would like to state that it is absolutely opposed to such transactions."

As a matter of fact today, the Metopon Corporation does not deal in Chase stock in any way whatever, and as long as I have anything to do with the management the market in Chase stock will not be an artificial one."

hearing recessed until Tuesday, at which time Pecora expects to go further into the activities of Wiggin's personal corporations, that he didn't know "anything about half of that."

Then it was as much a surprise to you as to us? A reporter said: "It certainly was," the banker replied.

Pecora presented evidence that the Chase Securities had participated in 35 pool operations from 1928 to 1931, in addition to nine accounts in Chase bank stocks.

Saturday Is Pay Day!

For Hope Star Carrier Boys

Each Hope Star carrier is his own merchant and should be paid each Saturday when he calls, as he is required to settle each Saturday night in full with the Star Publishing company for all the papers he receives. Carriers should not be expected to make repeated calls for collections, when the amount is so small, as the large number of deliveries they make, and the amount of time required in collecting from their customers does not permit this.

Any failure on the part of the subscriber to pay is a direct loss to the young man. Although the amount is small in each individual case, very many such delays or losses could be a serious matter to the carrier that serves you.

This is why the Hope Star urges you to have your dime ready when the carrier calls.
